User Interface Changes

Mobile capable – Agency Express 4 can be used with a phone or tablet to place orders etc. A good cell signal or wifi is recommended. You can view pictures of the items on the mobile version.

All of the user interface components of Agency Express 3 remain, but the buttons/menus often look different. There is now inline help on most pages.

The Shopping list Search/ Filtering looks very different now. Set aside a bit of time to explore your options the first time you shop.

The > and ^ characters indicate that there is a collapsed menu or page component.

Ordering flow changes

Agency Express 3

Agency Express 4

* The tailored shopping list will only show items that will still be available/ good at your chosen appointment date.

Verifying available quantity

We heard you – submitting an order and then learning later that an item is not available is disappointing. Agency Express 4 checks back to the food bank's inventory more often. This means some tasks are slower, because the site is rechecking what is available.

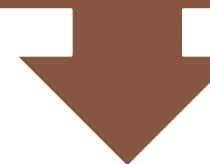

- When loading the tailored Shopping List (or reloading)
- When adding to Cart
- When checking out/ going to Cart page
- When editing quantity in the Cart
- When moving an Appointment for an Order
- When submitting an Order to the food bank
- When you edit a previously submitted Order

Speedy Order Receipt Confirmation

With Agency Express 3, the food bank needed 15 minutes or so to receive the Order and for the confirmation of receipt to return to Agency Express 3. Then you would also receive an email from the food bank with a PDF copy of the order contents.

With Agency Express 4, the receipt confirmation is nearly instantaneous. After the Order is submitted, the user is routed to Order Management. The Acknowledged Order should be visible right away. The email from the food bank with the PDF of the order contents will still be sent and take 5+ minutes.

Note that the food bank team may still need to adapt the received Order before final fulfillment and those changes will be reflected in Order management.
